Bachelor of Science in Equine Science and Management
University of Kentucky Equine Science and Management undergraduate degree program emphasis areas are science, business, community leadership and development and forages/pasture management. Students must complete nine credit hours in an emphasis area, in addition to 12 additional credits from other emphasis areas. Multiple emphasis areas can be selected.

- Interested in business and management
- Internship program

Targeted graduate school opportunities
Master’s or PhDs in numerous departments in the College of Agriculture, Food and Environment

- Train under nationally and internationally recognized scientists
- Access world-class laboratories and applied courses at university farms
Equine-focused clubs and teams
Several with national titles and recognition
- Dressage and Eventing Team
- Equestrian Team (hunt seat and western)
- Horse Racing Club
- Polo Team
- Research in Equine and Agricultural Disciplines Club
- Rodeo Team
- Saddle Seat Team

Scholarships and career preparation
Available through the College of Agriculture, Food and Environment
To learn more about student opportunities in UK’s College of Agriculture, Food and Environment or to schedule a visit through Academic Programs, go to www.ca.uky.edu/students.
Read more about us online www.cmuky.edu/equine

The College of Agriculture, Food and Environment is an equal opportunity employer.